

What is KTalk and who are you?

My name is Kerryn Burgoyne and I have Asperger's Syndrome. I am passionate about speaking of my own experiences to the public about this disorder from a different and personal perspective.

KTalk is about training people who have siblings with Asperger's Syndrome. In some cases, you could learn much about Asperger's in just one session. It may take more than two sessions to be clear about it. Depending on the overall circumstances at the time.

Where have you trained people in the past?

I have spoken in 2008 to several groups including the Alpha Autism Lifestyles Forum in June, and the Southern Autistic School in May. I have also done many numerous sessions for Living and Learning Centres in Melbourne.

In March 2009, I ran a 2 day seminar on Employment Strategies/Conflict,

Stress and Resolution Management in the workplace for people with AS in Townsville, Far North Queensland.

“Kerryn speaks frankly and passionately about living with Asperger's Syndrome and the many difficulties she has encountered. She also speaks of her desire to help others living with the disorder including parents/carers/teachers and has developed self help life courses to which will be published soon”.
Amanda Golding, Director, Amagol Services and Former Executive Officer of Autism Victoria.

How much does it cost for a training session on Asperger's and how long do they run for?

Training sessions usually run for 2 hours including a question time. The usual fee is $80 for consumer and support groups, and $150 for schools, agencies and other funded services. Fees are higher outside the Melbourne CDB for travel/accommodation costs. Driving outside the CBD for presentations is $30 ph.

What is the flexibility of this training?

Flexibility is always the No 1 key for training. This all depends how many sessions you require for your company/organisation/school/group, and it also depends on where you are located (within Melbourne CBD/Victoria/Australia, and the time/costs of the training.

Is there any other support available from the training session?

Should you need any further support from your training session, simply email us, with your enquiry and we'll arrange a support session for you.

Is there anything else that I need to know?

Yes, for training sessions a laptop and data projector will need to be provided for presentations.

All fees for sessions need to be settled prior to commencement of training given.
